PROCEDURE:
22.1.1 DEPARTMENT WAGES PROGRAM
The following describes the agency’s wages program:

A. The State of Wisconsin employs a compensation strategy that ensures that the overall compensation program, consisting of both pay and benefits, supports the mission, goals, and business objectives of the state.

B. The wages program addresses the following areas:
   1. Entry level salaries;
   2. Wage differential within ranks;
   3. Wage differential between ranks;
   4. Wage levels for those with special skills, if any, are referenced in the personnel compensation plan. Special skills are also recognized on the employee performance evaluation, which is considered during the distribution of merit pay increases (if the position is part of the merit pay system);
   5. Compensatory time policy;
   6. Overtime policy;
7. Provisions of wages augmentation;
8. Standby/on-call pay.

C. Each position within the Department is assigned a pay schedule and pay range. Each classification is assigned to a pay range by the Secretary of the Office of State Employment Relations. Refer to Wisconsin Statutes 230.09(1) and (2)(b), 230.12, and 111.80(3), 111.825, and 111.825(5).

D. Pay provisions are also outlined in the following:
1. Wis. Statutes – Chapter 230; and Chapter 36;
2. Policy bulletins;
3. UW-Madison Human Resources Policies
4. UW-System Human Resources Policies
5. UW-Madison Human Resources – Payroll and Benefits.
6. 2015-2017 Wisconsin Compensation Plan

E. The University of Wisconsin–Madison Classified Human Resources maintains the compensatory time and overtime policy for the University. FLSA non-exempt university staff employees may earn up to eighty (80) hours of compensatory time within a calendar year. Any compensatory time not used within the calendar year must be used by April 30 of the following year or it will be automatically paid out to the employee.

F. The Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) determines whether a position is eligible for overtime pay. All nonexempt employees will be granted overtime pay for working more than 40 hours in a week. Within Department practice, non-exempt employees may elect to earn compensatory time instead of overtime pay for working more than forty (40) hours in a week.

G. Pay rates for university staff employees are processed on an hourly basis. Increases are governed by the State of Wisconsin Compensation Pay Plan and UW-Madison Human Resources Policies.

H. Most employees regularly scheduled to work at least two hours between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. or on a weekend may be eligible for shift and/or weekend differential compensation in addition to base wages. To find current shift and weekend differential rates, refer to the UW-Madison Human Resources Policies.

I. Pay rates for academic staff are processed on an annual basis. Increases are governed by the State of Wisconsin Compensation Plan and UW-Madison Human Resources Policies.

22.1.2 LEAVE AND BENEFITS PROGRAM

The following outlines the Department’s leave program:

A. Administrative leave applicable to all employees may include but is not limited to military leave, jury and court service leave, or leave pending the outcome of some internal investigations. Current definitions, pay status, and requisite conditions for each provision are addressed in UW-Madison Human Resources Policies.
1. Wisconsin Statute 7.33(4) provides that state employees may act as “election officials” without loss of pay when their election duties occur on a scheduled workday.
2. University staff employees may request and be granted leaves of absence without pay. The terms and conditions for granting leaves of absence without pay are contained in Chapter ER-18 of the Wisconsin Administrative Code and UW-Madison Human Resources Policies.

B. The State of Wisconsin grants nine (9) days of paid legal holiday and thirty-six (36) hours of personal holiday per calendar year. Provisions are covered in Wisconsin Statute 230.35, in the State of Wisconsin Compensation Plan, in Policy Bulletins issued by the Office of State Employee Relations and UW-Madison Human Resources Policies. If the legal holidays of January 1, July 4, or December 25 fall on a Sunday, University offices are closed on the following day (Monday) and the holiday is observed on that Monday. If any of the other legal holidays fall on a regularly scheduled day off (such as Saturday or Sunday), employees are granted floating holiday time. Legal and floating holiday hours should be used in the calendar year in which they are granted. There are no provisions that allow university staff to carry over floating holiday time into the next calendar year. Employees who are required by the employer to work a holiday shall be paid at the rate of time and one-half. Such premium compensation may be either in cash or compensatory time.
C. Employees are to report daily to a supervisor whenever sick leave must be used, unless other mutually agreeable arrangements have been made due to an extended illness or recovery from injury. If no supervisor is available, employees are to report to the officer in charge (OIC) of their work unit. Employees earn sick leave credits from the beginning to the end of University employment, and there is no limit to the amount an employee can accumulate. Generally, university staff employees earn a minimum of five hours of sick time biweekly. Sick leave can be used in various situations. Sick leave credits are available at the time of death, disability, or retirement to pay state group health insurance premiums. Sick leave may also be used for personal illness or medical appointments. Sick leave may be used in other circumstances with prior approval. Academic Staff sick leave use and accrual is based on the academic staff policies and procedures.

D. Full-time employees accrue paid vacation (annual) leave based on the date of hire. Such leave accrues at the following rate for FSLA non-exempt university staff: 104 hours each year for the first five years of service (the amount will be prorated during the first year of employment); 144 hours each year for a full year of service between five and ten years of service; 160 hours each year for a full year of service between ten and fifteen years of service; 184 hours each year for a full year of service between fifteen and twenty years of service; 200 hours each year for a full year of service between twenty and twenty five years of service; and 216 hours each year for a full year of service after twenty-five years of service. Vacation accrues at the following rate for full-time supervisory university staff and FSLA exempt personnel: 120 hours each year for the first five years of service (the amount will be prorated during the first year of employment); 160 hours each year for a full year of service between five and ten years of service; 176 hours each year for a full year of service between ten and fifteen years of service; 200 hours each year for a full year of service between fifteen and twenty years of service; and 216 hours each year for a full year of service after twenty years of service. Academic Staff receive 176 hours of paid vacation leave per year.

E. The Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA), which became effective August 5, 1993, provides certain employees with up to 12 work weeks of unpaid, job-protected leave a year and requires group health benefits to be maintained during the leave. New military family leave entitlements (qualifying exigency leave of 12 weeks and military caregiver leave of 26 weeks) were added in 2008. The U.S. Department of Labor (DOL) has issued detailed regulations interpreting the FMLA.

22.1.3 PERSONNEL BENEFITS
The following describes additional personnel benefits:

A. The Federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act (1987) prohibits employers from setting a mandatory retirement age for most employees. However, UW–Madison employees may receive a retirement annuity beginning as early as age 55 (age 50 for protective category employees). The Department of Employee Trust Funds manages the State of Wisconsin Retirement System (WRS). All permanent employees are required to participate in WRS. Employees may also make additional contributions toward their WRS account. In addition, tax sheltered annuity (TSA) programs and deferred compensation programs are available. Specific details regarding TSA programs and deferred compensation may be obtained from the UW–Madison Classified Human Resources. The University does not contribute toward TSA programs or the deferred compensation program. Employees who qualify may also receive Social Security benefits. Taxes paid to the Social Security program are established by Congress. Benefits are based on earnings, length of coverage, and age. Employees who retire and who meet eligibility requirements may use unused sick leave toward payment of health care.

B. The State of Wisconsin carries group hospital, medical, and dental insurance through a variety of companies. Employees who meet established eligibility requirements may enroll in the program. Insurance plans are made available to employees based upon job classification. Specific details regarding such plans are provided by the University of Wisconsin-Madison Human Resources Payroll and Benefits Services. Hospital, medical, and dental insurance premiums are paid in part by the employee through payroll deduction and in part by the University.

C. The duty disability program provides a lifetime disability benefit under Wisconsin Statute 40.65. The Wisconsin Retirement System (WRS) also offers a Long-Term Disability Insurance (LTDI) plan. It is available to persons who are participating WRS employees on or after October 16, 1992. Depending on the employee’s employment dates, he or she may be eligible only for LTDI or may be eligible to choose between the two disability plans. The categories are:
1. If the employee became a new participant under the WRS on or after October 16, 1992, or the employee was covered under the WRS before that date but had a break in coverage after that date, the employee is only eligible for LTDI benefits.
2. If the employee was covered under the WRS before October 16, 1992, and remained continuously employed under the system until becoming disabled, the employee may apply for WRS disability benefits OR elect coverage under the LTDI plan. An election to be covered under the LTDI program is irrevocable and is an absolute waiver of rights to WRS disability benefits.

3. The State also offers an income continuation program (ICI). Benefits from this program do not duplicate, but may supplement, WRS or LTDI benefits.

D. Death benefits are also available. These benefits are dependent upon the employee’s health coverage plan.

E. The State of Wisconsin carries life insurance with a selected company or companies. Employees who meet established eligibility requirements may enroll in the program. The life insurance program provides term life insurance and accidental death and dismemberment insurance on a scheduled basis. Life insurance premiums are paid by the University through payroll deduction. Employees on leave without pay will be required to pay the full premium if they wish to maintain coverage during their absence. Personnel should refer to the University of Wisconsin - Madison Human Resources Payroll and Benefits Services for additional information.

F. State of Wisconsin employees generally have liability protection in accordance with Wis. Statute 895.46(1). The state plan protects employees from liability resulting from their conduct while engaging in their duties as employees, regardless of where the incident occurs, if the employee is acting within the scope of his or her employment activities and notifies the University immediately of the incident. Legal defense, judgments, or negotiated settlements then become the state’s obligation.

G. Realizing that continuing education is a fundamental component in the personal and career development of our employees, the Department encourages and supports employees in their educational endeavors within the framework of a thoughtful and fiscally responsible budget. Employees receive tuition reimbursement benefits at the discretion of the Department only if there is sufficient budgeted educational reimbursement money. The procedure for tuition reimbursement is as follows:

1. The Department will accept requests for educational reimbursement during the month of April for classes that would be taken during the following fiscal year. Requests should be turned in to the Personnel Sergeant and must be received prior to the class start date. Requests will either be approved or denied before the course term starts.

2. Reimbursement monies that were approved but not used during a particular fiscal year will not be carried over or allowed to be held in standby by any employee. Educational reimbursement money budgeted is for that specific fiscal year only and is subject to change on a yearly basis.

3. University and Academic staff with at least a permanent half-time appointment or greater may take up to up to 18 career-related credits in a calendar year. University and Academic Staff may be reimbursed for up to 100% of tuition and fees upon successful completion of the course at the discretion of the Division. Successful completion of courses graded using the traditional grading scale is defined as earning a grade of C or greater. Accredited institutions of higher education available for reimbursement will be determined by the employing unit. Career-related coursework is undergraduate or graduate level courses and professional development courses which will qualify an employee for development within their current position or for advancement within the profession in which the employee is currently working, the current classification or classification series. Exceptions to this requirement may be made at the employing unit’s discretion on a case by case basis. Courses for personal enrichment do not qualify for reimbursement. The training or course is generally taken on the employee’s own time, using either leave without pay or accrued compensatory time off. Annual leave or make-up time within the same work week may be arranged if the supervisor or chairperson can show that the unit’s work will not be affected adversely.

4. The UW Madison Employee Coursework and Training Assistance Policy describes the request procedure to be completed prior to starting any courses for which reimbursement will be requested.

5. Tuition reimbursements totaling $5,250 or more in one calendar year will be subject to Federal and State tax withholding and reporting regulations.
